These bikes are, of course, Italian-made Aermacchi models which Harley used to try to have something to compete with the flood of small, Japanese motorcycles on the market. They only made the M for and so they are fairly rare, which explains the prices. And, yes, the seller has the missing and hard-to-find tail light lens. But, I would love to take something like this to Sturgis someday, just to see the reaction. Would you have the guts to ride this Harley in public? You know I would. In some parts of some cities you would not want to ride this anymore than I would my King Midget. In my small town of Butler Pa it would be fine to ride all over the place. Thing is you have to look out for every nut that tries to drive while not paying attention. When these were in their prime, I saw quite a few of them out west. I actually thought they brought some competition to the Honda 50 Cub. I also thought they looked better. Interesting enough, the larger Aramachi bikes did quite well. Would I ride one of these? Hell, yeah! Some years ago I bought a Honda Spree, a 50cc scooter, for my youngest boy to commute to work. Wow, I threw one of these away for trash week back in the 80s. It was in pieces, and someone had painted it monochrome blue, but stillâ€¦. I also had a Honda cub along with the many other Honda 50s,70s,90s and now I have a I bet I had at least 50 of these Hondas I still love them and look for them. I did not know Harley made these little 50s. Even though I had so many Hondas. Oh, forgot, I have a trail 70 somewhere in the shed,real rough,I wonder what its worth now! I owned one exactly like this when I was 13, used it everyday on and off road during summer holidays, always got me home, great first bike for a kid at the time! I think I paid Imagine the biker gang that rode these Harley Davidsons. Instead of saddle bagsâ€¦they had pocket protectors! Omgâ€¦I need a drink. Anyone care to join? I love these small bikes have had several Puch mopeds. My brother has a couple. I have mine yet I bought in Paid 35 dollars for it. I put a large rear sprocket on it for trail riding. The only think about it,in low gear it went so slow, it was hard to maintain your balance, lolâ€¦ Had a lot of fun with it. I took the muffler off, heard something rattling inside. I tipped it upside down and out came some piston rings. I was in 8th grade at the time. My older brother helped me take it to the Harley shop to get it bored and over hauled. Yeah, well, I had to sit in one of those baskets too as a kid. Yes, funny today, but occasionally you can still see this scenario in Europe. I know someone this happened to it makes Ole Farmer Brown think that his 69 Z with a 4 inch wide and 10 foot tall sapling growing up through the trunk is worth 15k, because one on tv sold for 75kâ€¦lol! But I love the little Harley 50â€¦ I bought on of these in for 50 bucks. I rode it to high school from March to June. I was slow,top speed about 45 mph, but I rode from Columbus Ohio to Cleveland one sumner,had to take back roads, but made it. I love these! My neighbor Don has one in the loft of his garage sitting about feet from me right now. Don't post your car for sale in the comments. Click here to get it featured on the homepage instead. Flaming red finish 3 speed gear box. Also called Aermacchi. There are many clubs that love these bikes, but is very hard to find one like this that still has it's original look and runs like a top. Starts right up and goes through the gears like it should. I purchased it from a guy in Alabama had it shipped to up state New York in the mountains and had a great mechanic from BYS in pine Island NY work on it to get it in top running shape. Since then I had a hip replacement and broke my femur in March so I cannot ride anymore. At this price you're getting a Harley that was done right. Again I restored this bike for myself not to sell, but unfortunately have to. I was done right! You can have it painted or just leave it in its original State. The only flaw is two light bulbs are out but hope to get them before I sell it if I'm unable to get them it is being sold as it. I will work with any shipper you like. Sold as is because I don't no what a person will do once they receive it. I will send you a text and a video of it starting and driving if you like. Red was the only available color in for the model year. The was equipped with a street style exhaust, the later model had a trail like exhaust pipe. The main difference was the larger bore of now 65cc compared to the earlier 50cc displacement. The bike is also referenced as M Sport.
